During the interview, David talks about the lessons God taught him through a tumultuous divorce and the painful loss of his son.

Dr. Dobson and David talk about the importance of men of God spending time daily in prayer and God's Word. American culture is trying to silence men of God through intimidation, going as far as describing biblical masculinity as toxic.

During the interview and in his book, David challenges men of God to study and stand on God's Word to face the ridicule. David reminds men that they are going to be ridiculed just for being Christians, so they may as well stand in the gap for the Lord.
